

Pediatric Hospital Medicine 2021 Awards

PHM Award for Quality and Patient Safety

This award is designed to celebrate significant achievements by a pediatric hospitalist in the areas of quality improvement and patient safety during the prior year. Applicants are encouraged to demonstrate broad dissemination and sustainability of successful initiatives. Third-party nominations are encouraged but self-nominations may also be submitted.

PHM Award for Outstanding Research

This award highlights exceptional achievement by an investigator in the field of pediatric hospital medicine research during the prior year. Impact on a large number of hospitalized children will receive priority as will particularly creative research ideas. Special consideration will be given to nominees with outstanding future promise in pediatric hospital medicine research. Third-party nominations are encouraged but self-nominations may also be submitted.

PHM Award for Educational Excellence

This award recognizes an individual making outstanding contributions to the educational aspects of pediatric hospital medicine during the prior year. Examples might include advancement of the field through curriculum development, creation of innovative teaching techniques, or a truly inspirational teacher. Priority will be given to individuals that demonstrate objective evidence of teaching effectiveness. Outstanding creativity or novel ideas are also viewed favorably. Third-party nominations are encouraged but self-nominations may be submitted.

PHM Award for Excellence in Clinical Care

This award recognizes a pediatric hospitalist who is an excellent leader in the advancement of clinical care of hospitalized children. Nominees for this award should exhibit one or more of the following qualifiers: (1) Evidence of outstanding contributions to clinical care through the development of clinical services or teams that have improved patient care; (2) Excellence in practice management as evidenced by improved value or growth of services; (3) Exemplary role modeling of professionalism in Hospital Medicine to colleagues, learners and patients; and, (4) Outstanding leadership in or advocacy for Pediatric Hospital Medicine at the local, regional or national level.

PHM Award for Collaborative Impact

This award recognizes a group that has worked collaboratively on a project relevant to the field of pediatric hospital medicine. Projects with the potential to have a significant impact on children's health and/or the practice of hospital pediatrics are encouraged. Projects will be considered in the fields of Quality Improvement, Education and Research. Evidence of multi-disciplinary collaboration is encouraged. Single institution or multi-institution projects will be considered. Third-party nominations are encouraged but self-nominations may be submitted.

PHM Award for Regional Impact

This award highlights exceptional achievement by a pediatric hospitalist practicing in a regional or community hospital setting who has had a significant local or regional impact. Nominees for this award will have achieved notable local impact through work in any of the following areas but not exclusive to: quality and patient safety, advocacy, research, educational excellence, and/or clinical excellence. Third party nominations are encouraged but self-nominations may also be submitted.

*New*PHM Award for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Leadership

This award recognizes a pediatric hospitalist who exemplifies leadership in promoting and fostering a diverse and inclusive environment in Pediatric Hospital Medicine locally, regionally or nationally. Nominees for this award should exhibit one or more of the following qualifiers: (1) Evidence of outstanding contributions in clinical care through development of clinical services or programs which mitigate health disparities in hospitalized children; (2) Excellence in research as evidenced by significant contributions examining health equity, gender equity, diversity and inclusion data in patient care and/or in the workforce; (3) Outstanding leadership in education and advocacy on topics of diversity, health equity, gender equity, and inclusion; (4) Exemplary leadership in mentorship of faculty and/or learners who are women or underrepresented in medicine. Third-party nominations are encouraged but self-nominations may also be submitted.